

May Up Defense Budget

Red Military Spending To Be Increased

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, noting that the Soviet Union intends to increase military spending, announced today the United States is taking another look at its defense program.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev announced in Moscow last week that the Soviet Union has suspended plans to cut Soviet armed forces by more than one million men in view of the world situation.

McNamara said that "the simplest precaution calls for still another examination of our defense posture." He added:

"Currently we are as strong—if not stronger—than any potential aggressor."

"But in the fact of the inescapable realities that confront us, such as threats to dispossess us of our rightful presence in Berlin, we can do no less than re-examine our needs. This we are doing."

McNamara's statement gave no indication of what new steps the Kennedy Administration might take to bolster defenses.

Shortly before McNamara's announcement, Roswell L. Gilpatrick, deputy secretary of defense, had informed a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that President Kennedy had called for a new appraisal of U.S. fighting power in the light of the Berlin crisis.

Ever since the Berlin crisis began heating up again a month ago, there has been speculation that Kennedy might order some form of mobilization to alert the American people to the gravity of the situation and to warn Khrushchev that the United States intends to back up its firm stand against being ousted from West Berlin.

Over the weekend, the House Foreign Affairs Committee made public testimony from Gen. Lauris Norstad, commander of allied forces in Europe, that he feels the time has come for a quiet building up of strength "that would go a long way toward passing the Berlin ball back to Mr. Khrushchev."

Janitor's Act On Airliner Real Problem

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A vacationing Illinois janitor, who caused a ruckus with a pocket knife aboard a crowded jetliner, poses a headache for authorities because of a legal no-man's land.

And it appears the headache may require legislative relief from Congress.

Joseph Newkirk, 60, of Argo, Ill., was arrested Saturday after threatening two persons aboard United Air Lines Flight 853, carrying 118 passengers from Chicago to Los Angeles.

No one was injured. Newkirk, who at first told police he was a salesman, was booked on suspicion of assault.

Shortly after takeoff from Chicago's O'Hare Field, investigators said, Newkirk became enraged because a stewardess took away his whisky bottles. Later, as the plane whisked over Nevada at about 32,000 feet, he became belligerent, pushed a stewardess and brandished his knife when a young Marine interceded.

The Marine, Pvt. Donald James Schwalbach, of Highland Park, Ill., slugged and disarmed Newkirk. The janitor was bound by the crew and held captive in the lounge until Los Angeles police boarded the plane here.

After booking Newkirk, police discovered they had no jurisdiction over a crime allegedly committed over Nevada. They called the FBI and the Federal Aviation Agency.

The FBI pondered the problem—and said they'd have to discuss it with headquarters in Washington.

The FAA said it could not prosecute Newkirk on a criminal charge, but could charge him in a civil action with violating FAA drinking regulations aboard an airliner.

Then Asst. U.S. Atty. Tom Sheridan said he knows of no federal statute covering passengers aboard a plane in interstate flight.

Soviets Show Off Array of Aircraft

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union showed off its air might Sunday in a dazzling display that struck Western diplomats as a gesture designed to strengthen Kremlin demands on Berlin.

Premier Khrushchev and Cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin watched side by side along with a crowd of 50,000 while the Soviet air force paraded a spectacular array of new craft at Moscow's Tushino Airfield.

Western experts watching the show—first the Soviets have staged since 1958—said the United States has nothing to match several of the entries, including a jet fighter that can light up a liquid rocket engine booster in flight to gain a tremendous rate of climb.

The most spectacular attraction shown publicly for the first time was a delta wing bomber the announcer said had a speed several times that of sound. The plane looked bigger than the eight-engine U.S. B52 and had four jets, two on the wing tips and two inboard below the wings.

Western air attaches showed keen interest in a flypast of 10 heavysupersonic bombers which also made their first public appearance. This new model's two engines were mounted on the rear atop the long, slender fuselage. It had high swept wings and was comparable in size to the U.S. B58, whose publicly admitted speed is 1,500 miles per hour.

"A very impressive show," said the U.S. air attaché, Col. Melvin Neilsen. "It's evident the Russians have continued with the development of all classes of aircraft."

Western observers said the show made clear the Soviets are not pinning all their faith on long-range missiles alone.

The fighters carried air-to-air rockets instead of conventional cannon. The new bombers were armed with air-to-surface missiles instead of bombs.

The Soviets gave advance billing to a vertical takeoff plane that does not depend on a jet thrust to get it aloft. Called a "screw wing plane" it was a cross between a plane and a helicopter.

Two engines were mounted at the end of each wing, and it had two rotors atop each wing making it highly maneuverable and able to carry either troops or freight.

One novelty was a giant helicopter capable of hauling 180 men. It appeared carrying a wooden house under its belly and landed it on the field. The house was about the size of a large car trailer in the United States.

The Soviets spiced up their show with a flypast of 15 helicopters each carrying a trapeze on which sat a pretty girl each dressed in the national costume of one of the 15 Soviet republics.

237 Dead On Ship

African Negroes Victims of Blast

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (AP)—The Portuguese Maritime Ministry announced today 237 persons are dead or missing and presumed dead from the grounded and burning Portuguese ship Save. Most were African Negro passengers.

The 2,037-ton transport was swept onto a sandbar in a storm Saturday in the Mozambique Channel, off Southeast Africa, and a series of explosions ripped the hull and engulfed her in flames.

The ministry said there were 490 persons aboard the ship, including a 44-man crew, and that 253 were saved, some of them suffering injuries.

Estimates of the total aboard previously had ranged above 500. Some of the passengers were troops, others were mine laborers.

The disaster struck near the Linde River estuary of northern Mozambique.

It was thought many of the missing swam safely ashore but landed at various points and would be hard to round up.

The Portuguese army still had not issued an announcement giving any official information.

Helicopters were ferrying the injured and other survivors to Beira and Lourenco Marques. Light aircraft were trying to land on the beach at low tide, and small boats were searching the area for survivors.

Rescue parties also were making their way overland to the isolated area.

The Save, named for a river in Mozambique, had sailed from Lourenco Marques with troops, laborers and military supplies for calls at northern ports in the sprawling East African colony.

Mozambique is largely under military control and Portugal has been pouring troops into the country to prevent a nationalist uprising like that raging in the sister colony of Angola.

One report from Lourenco Marques said about 200 Portuguese soldiers and 300 Africans were aboard the Save. But other reports said as many as 700 persons might have been aboard.

The transport ran into a storm off the mouth of the Linde River, 10 miles south of Quelimane on the coast of Mozambique. High winds and heavy seas blew the ship onto a sandbar within sight of the beach.

A tug raced from Beira but could not get across the sandbar to reach the burning ship.

Bazaar Days Draws Crowd At Opening

"Isn't this fun?" That is what people are saying to those they meet on the crowded street during Bazaar Days, which started early Monday morning and will continue until 5 p.m. Tuesday. And this lively affair will be tonight, too, until 8:30.

Wee youngsters in strollers were being pushed through the crowd by their young mothers, and people of all ages, both men and women, were either buying or selling, and there was music and yelling. That's what Sedalia looked like Monday morning.

The most colorful booth on the street is the Jaycees' Soap Box Derby booth where Soap Box Derby penants and snow cones are being sold.

And speaking of snow cones, in all the hurrying and pushing, a little boy stopped to give a little girl a taste of his snow cone, and it seemed to be dinner time for a baby in a stroller, where a bigger sister had stopped in a spot on Ohio that was not crowded, but very sunny, to take a little milk from his bottle before they went on through the crowd.

"See my shoes," said one woman happily. I bought this pair on sale and they are so comfortable. Now I can take in the Bazaar without my feet hurting."

Shoes seemed to be the thing that are really selling—in fact it is hard to get past the place where they are being sold—it doesn't make any difference which shoe store it is.

Men's shirts were being grabbed up, too, and racks of dresses and blouses were drawing crowds. There were wide assortments of things from electric sweepers to flies—flies for fishing, that is, both on Ohio and Main streets.

There are booths of many

Vice Operations Discussion Set

FORT LEONARD WOOD, Mo. (AP)—A meeting of Army and civilian officials is scheduled here Thursday morning for a discussion of vice and gambling operations near this military post.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has reported that roving house trailer camps on country roads are offering girls, drinks and gambling to soldiers.

The newspaper said the units pull out and move to new locations when raided.

Maj. Gen. Howard Ker, commanding general of Fort Wood, called the session of the Armed Forces Community Health and Welfare Council to discuss the situation.

The council is composed of army officers, state and local law enforcement officials and city officials of nearby towns.

During the past six months 65 cases of thefts or violence have been reported to the provost marshal. They include shootings, stabbings, strong-armings, assaults, fights and drunk and disorderly conduct at 17 establishments.

Gen. Ker said: "The situation, generally speaking, is not too bad, but we are not happy with many of these clandestine establishments."

Globe reporters Ralph Wagner and Munro Roberts III said officials told them that fly-by-night honkey tonks are operated by outsiders with girls imported from St. Louis, Kansas City, Chicago, Detroit and Houston.

Pulaski Sheriff Dorsey Rayle was quoted as saying: "We will hit one place and make arrests. It folds up and flies the coop—gone with the wind. Later, some other operation may come in and occupy that same area."

Full Slate Of Work On Tap for JFK

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy, who mixed work with rest and relaxation during his second straight weekend on Cape Cod, flies back to Washington today to face a busy schedule.

On his return to the White House he confers with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and other State Department officials on the state visit of Mohammed Ayub Khan, president of Pakistan, who arrives in Washington Tuesday.

Then at noon, Kennedy meets with 30 business executives on citizen support for his proposed foreign aid program. The businessmen are representatives of the newly-formed Citizen's Committee for International Development.

The committee, headed by Warren Lee Pierson, chairman of the executive committee of Trans World Airlines, was organized to work for Kennedy's foreign aid proposals now pending in Congress.

President and Mrs. Kennedy attracted two big crowds to St. Francis Xavier Church in Hyannis Sunday. One crowd showed up for the Mass they were expected to attend, the other for the service they actually attended, an hour later.

The Kennedys spent the rest of the day taking it easy at their Hyannis Port home overlooking Nantucket Sound.

Saturday was the President's Hyannis Port work day. He spent nearly five hours discussing the problems of Germany and Berlin, and the situation in Southeast Asia, with three top advisors.

Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the President's military representative, flew up from Washington for the talks.

The Cape Cod White House said the conference was wide ranging but was not of an emergency nature.

Hard Fought Demo Contest In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The hardest fought democratic primary battle in a dozen years winds up in Virginia Tuesday with the durable political organization of Sen. Harry F. Byrd challenged for the state's three top offices.

An estimated 400,000 voters will decide the outcome of the bitter Democratic family feud by nominating party candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general.

Consensus of the political pulse takers is that the organization candidate for governor, former attorney general Albert S. Harrison Jr., has a comfortable lead over A. E. Stephens, the present lieutenant governor who broke ties recently with the Byrd forces.

And it is the race for lieutenant governor and attorney general that appears to be providing most of the uncertainty in usually predictable primary fights in Virginia.

In the contest for lieutenant governor, State Sen. Mills E. Godwin, the strongly conservative organization candidate, is matched against State Sen. Armistead L. Boothe, a moderate on the school issue and a foe of the school-closing laws when Virginia was trying massive resistance to integration.

While Harrison, 54, is urging the nomination of the entire organization team, several newspapers who support him have called for nomination of Boothe and the candidate for attorney general on the opposition ticket, T. Munford Boyd, a University of Virginia law professor. A number of others including the Richmond papers, the state's largest, are backing the straight organization ticket.

Stephens, 60, a prominent figure in the Byrd camp for most of his 31 years in public life, first broke with the organization on school and fiscal matters two years ago.

The Stephens ticket has the formal backing of the AFL-CIO leadership in the state as well as the support of a number of Negro groups.

Sen. Byrd has not been publicly active in the campaign — except for the recent disclosure by his office of a Dec. 5 letter from Stephens asking for his support after Stephens said he had never solicited it.

Hoffa Thinks Teamsters Will Rejoin AFL-CIO

NEW YORK (AP)—Teamsters head James R. Hoffa says his union will be back in the AFL-CIO within six months—"unless those who are in the labor movement desire to have a weakened federation."

The AFL-CIO expelled the 1.7 million-member Teamsters brotherhood in 1957 following Senate testimony that Teamsters' leaders were corrupt.

Appearing Sunday night on the nationally televised NBC program "Meet The Press," Hoffa was reminded by a panelist that he previously had predicted the AFL-CIO would end his union's exile within 18 months.

"I said they should," Hoffa responded. "They may be short-sighted for the next 18 months as they have been for the last 3½ years."

Hoffa, reelected last week to a new 5-year term as Teamsters' president, said he believes "the Teamsters union belongs in the house of labor."

"We helped build it," he added. "We are the largest single organization; we lend strength to the labor movement."

Court Test Slated For Rider Suit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A suit to prevent police from arresting "Freedom Riders" and other Negroes seeking to use public facilities in Mississippi headed for a federal court test at Jackson today as the number of riders arrested soared to 227.

A three-judge federal court planned to hear the injunction request filed by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The suit attacked what it called unconstitutional state laws requiring segregated railroad cars, buses, rest rooms and waiting rooms and the posting of segregation signs at terminals.

Such laws, the suit contended, subject Negroes to "daily public inconvenience, harassment, and embarrassment" and violate rights secured "by the due process clause of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution."

Nine riders from New Orleans and eight from Montgomery, Ala., were arrested Sunday when they tried unsuccessfully to desegregate terminal waiting rooms.

A spokesman for the Congress of Racial Equality said five Freedom Riders planned to leave St. Louis today to test bus and railroad facilities in Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Illinois.

The Rev. Raymond Lathan, pastor of the New Hope Baptist Church at Milwaukee, said he hoped to recruit as many as 100 riders for a trip South. But the Negro pastor did not set a date for the start of the journey.

A citizens committee at Savannah, Ga., announced agreement to permit desegregation of downtown counters in the wake of a 15-month boycott. The agreement specified lunch counters would be opened to Negroes and the latter would lift their boycott.

The statement came only a few hours after a spokesman said 76 persons representing the Citizens Council and the Association of Southern Patriots met and formed committees to investigate the reported agreement. The spokesman said the groups might boycott downtown stores if lunch counters are integrated.

Eichmann Is Given Brief Trial Recess

JERUSALEM (AP) — Shaking from lack of sleep and nervous tension, Adolf Eichmann asked for and got a morning recess today to sleep off the rigors of his long trial. He returned to the witness stand in the afternoon, starting straight ahead with normally impassive demeanor.

Eichmann underwent rigorous cross-examination by Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner during the last court session Friday. This was to have continued this morning but was suspended until the afternoon at Eichmann's request.

He slept during the morning on a narrow cot in his solitary confinement cell.

The former Gestapo officer, impassive until Hausner cracked his shell last Friday afternoon, was trembling and twitching when he entered his glass-enclosed cage in the courtroom this morning.

He sent a note to the tribunal through his defense counsel reporting he had spent a sleepless night and was suffering nervous tension.

The prison doctor examined Eichmann and said he was "perfectly fit but tired due to loss of sleep."

His guards said Eichmann had a bad weekend. "He's got the jitters," one officer said.

Eichmann has endured a year of confinement since his capture in Argentina and 13 weeks on trial with seeming calm.

He suffered an attack of nerves, described as a momentary heart flutter, the day the trial opened April 11 and a similar attack a month later. But otherwise he presented a rock-like mien.

organizations, in fact they were almost solid from Fifth to Main and the crowd was almost solid, too, from 9 a. m. on. The VFW Auxiliary is in front of the Sedalia Bank and Trust with an assortment of things including candy, cookies and white elephant articles. The Missouri Pacific women even had small bags of cookies to eat with coffee breaks, and at Second and Ohio at the booth of Beth El Sisterhood a bird was whistling gaily calling attention to the novelties for sale there. The Sisterhood has snow cones, too.

There doesn't seem to be any kind of item that isn't on sale and anyone who isn't hungry when they start down the street, is before they get very far — the wonderful large loaves of homemade bread, the delicious looking cakes, rolls, candy, cookies, canned goods of all kinds, fresh vegetables, and even jars of unpopped popcorn.

The First Methodists again have their chicken dinner sack lunches.

It was 7 o'clock Monday morning when the OES started putting their booth in order and the BPWC, had in addition to their assortment of white elephant items, American flags, while the Breakfast Optimist Club was selling blankets and pillows along with other things.

"It's this just like the Fair," commented one woman, "you feel you just must come down to the Sidewalk Bazaar for fear you'll miss something," and anybody who doesn't take it in does miss something.

"As a grocerman once said," quoted another woman, "there is nothing so much fun as people," and that is exactly what the Sidewalk Bazaar is — people and bargains.

Star-studded Cast

Night Show Arrangements Completed for State Fair

Final arrangements have been completed for the night show at the 1961 Missouri State Fair in Sedalia.

W. H. "Chubby" Ritzenthaler, Fair Secretary, said today the show program includes a variety of acts ranging from singers, dancers and comics to an aerialist, acrobats and specialized performances. The show, starting at 7:30 p. m. nightly in front of the grandstand at the Fairgrounds, will open on August 20 and run through Aug. 24.

Ritzenthaler said six stars from Grand Ole Opry — the nationally broadcasted country music program originating in Nashville — would appear for the Sunday night show, August 27. He identified them as the comedy team of Lonzo and Oscar and singers Red Sovine, Carl Smith, Stonewall Jackson and Justin Tubb.

A 20-member dance troupe will be featured in the "State Fair Revue of 1961" program and a 10-member chorus, McLean's Chorus, will sing selections ranging from Broadway musicals to American folk songs.

Johnny Puleo and His Harmonica Gang — a group that has appeared on television with Perry Como, Milton Berle and Patti Page — will perform in the show, along with the unicycle act of Evy and Everto. Puleo, who stands only four feet, six inches tall, has made royal command performances in England and special performances before the presidents of France and the United States.

A blonde aerialist, Betty Pasco, is also one of the featured performers at the night show. "Betty Pasco works on a revolving trapeze some 30 feet above the ground," Ritzenthaler explained. "She has fallen twice in her career but was caught by her husband, who assists in the act and stands beneath her during the show."

Other acts include the 7 Sons of Morocco, a group of balancers and acrobats, and Miss Lona and Her Pets, an animal trainer with a team of nine fox terriers specializing in precision dancing and stunts. Vic Hyde, a one-man band who plays four trumpets at the same time while twirling a baton, will also be on the bill.

The Fair opens the day before the night show begins — Aug. 19 — and will end on Aug. 27.

High Negro Leader Says JFK Erred

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People says President Kennedy "has made an error" in failing to prod Congress for new civil rights legislation.

But the secretary, Roy Wilkins, insisted he wasn't quarreling with the Kennedy administration, nor castigating it for the President "has done fine in appointment of Negroes to high offices" and eliminating segregation policies in plants that do business with the government.

"But we need more laws immediately, not only action under existing laws," Wilkins told a news conference Sunday on the eve of the NAACP's 52nd annual convention. It opens a week of sessions tonight with some 1,200 delegates representing nearly 389,000 members in 45 states.

The NAACP, in a 72-page report issued in New York, credited efforts by its members in 1960 as responsible for many victories against discrimination.

"The civil rights victory is just around the corner," the report said.

Wilkins echoed that view, pointing out "the NAACP has created nationwide opinion that has made segregation dead. But there is no doubt that segregation practices will continue and we will continue to fight them."

He praised the "Freedom Riders" in the South, saying their actions have awakened the complacency in the North who have thought that segregation is really over. "It has jolted the North," he said.

Wilkins, however, declined to say whether NAACP members should join the rider project sponsored by the Congress on Racial Equality.

"We have other things to do," he said, such as ensuring the right to vote to every Negro, making housing available to anyone anywhere, eliminating all racial discrimination "where it is imposed by government and this occurs in the North as well as the South."

The NAACP report said Negroes on the whole last year had won improvement in housing, education, church activities and youth programs. It reported it had spent nearly $1.2 million to carry out its activities.

Labor's Family Squabbling

Continued high unemployment, cutting into many unions' membership, has sharpened the long standing deep divisions within the AFL-CIO. But top labor men are said to minimize prospects of a new formal split in the organization.

They do not try to hide the fact that the stepped-up rivalry between CIO industrial unions and AFL craft unions is having painful, costly consequences as raiding and jurisdictional wrangles go on apace.

According to one source, this activity is now at such peak that few unions file complaints against raiding, since they themselves are usually engaged in the practice.

Diminished employment rates have been especially hard on CIO-affiliated auto and steel workers, since automation trends in those fields suggest many now idle may never be rehired.

Further aggravating the plight of such industrial unions is a growing habit among some manufacturers of trimming out permanent maintenance help and instead contracting for this work as needed—with the jobs usually going to members of rival craft unions.

Notwithstanding these serious difficulties, labor leaders in the federation seem strongly disinclined to permit an open break. Too well remembered are the circumstances which helped drive them toward unity in the first instance, back in 1955.

Studies then indicated the AFL and CIO had been contending, over the years, for less than a third of a million members. In all their jurisdictional and other combat, only some 130,000 actually had changed affiliation.

The real rub was that most changes were offsetting. On net balance the AFL was the gainer by a mere 12,000. Both sides agreed that, set against the time, effort and money involved, this was a paltry advance.

It was felt that to try living together might be more sensible. That view still seems to govern, even as their squabbles take on new fever under the one big tent.

The leadership is quite disenchanted with the idea of expelling troublesome unions, convinced this weapon is ineffective in curbing abuses. One expellee, James Hoffa's Teamsters, has thrived in exile and now threatens inroads on AFL-CIO territory.

For the moment the decision is to muddle along. The federation will suffer its intramural fights much as does a family with many strong-willed children contending over too little material substance. For the alternative of separation appears even unhappier.

Negro MP's Arrest Negro Sit-Ins

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Maj. Gen. Edward G. Farrand, Commander at Fort Hood, Tex., has hit upon the neat device of using Negro Military Police to break up Negro sit-ins against segregated white restaurants in nearby Killeen, Tex.

Here is the story of what happened.

On July 9 last year, Private Robert B. Curtis of the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood, with two other Negro soldiers, staged a sit-in protest at Craig's lunch counter in Killeen. They were arrested by the Provost Marshal, Col. M. C. Miller, accompanied by several Military Police, and ordered to report to General Farrand who, they state, threatened them with court martial if they were involved in a similar incident.

This pretty well intimidated Negro troops stationed at Fort Hood until April 22 of this year, when Curtis and one other Negro soldier again sat-in at Craig's restaurant. This time, the Provost Marshal made a special trip to the barracks and recruited twelve Negroes to serve as Military Police. Normally, Negro troops do not serve as MP's outside of camp for fear of arousing the resentment of white Texans. But in this case twelve Negro MP's were rushed to Craig's restaurant and arrested the Negro sit-ins.

When the United Press International telephoned Fort Hood from Austin to inquire about the incident, the Provost Marshal's office denied that anything had happened.

When this column queried the Army in Washington as to whether such suppression of the news was a part of U. S. Army policy, the Army, after taking five days to exchange communications with Fort Hood, made no comment. It did not deny the incident took place.

When asked whether the use of Negro troops to apprehend Negro sit-in strikers was U. S. Army policy, the Army replied that an order had been issued, June 19, instructing General Farrand and other commanders that MP's could not be used "on behalf of local authorities to support enforcement of segregation," though they could be used to "quell affrays" where military personnel are involved.

On June 11 of this year, six Negro soldiers again picketed Craig's restaurant, this time accompanied by one civilian, Mrs. Charles Ludwig of Killeen.

This time Gen. Garrand had heard from Washington and did not arrest the sit-ins. However, Mrs. Ludwig's husband, Charles Ludwig, who works for the Red Cross on the Post, was given 24 hours' notice that he was no longer welcome at Fort Hood.

Mrs. Ludwig, who was a volunteer Gray Lady at the U. S. Army hospital was informed that her services were no longer wanted, though she had donated them free.

The Army in Washington, when queried as to whether the disciplining of the two civilians represented U. S. Army policy, referred the matter to the Red Cross.

The Diplomatic Cables

President Kennedy's ailing back now feels strong enough so he is definitely planning a goodwill visit to Latin America in August—

Guest Editorial

CHILTON (Wis.) TIMES-HERALD: Well-Informed President. — Reports continue to come out of Washington on how extra-ordinarily well informed the President is on every aspect of American life and affairs. Many have wondered how this could be.

An inquiry into his reading habits, published a few days ago, provides the answer. The President reads seven newspapers every day. He also keeps up with eight weekly publications and six monthly magazines. And he reads books.

How does he do it? By reading at a speed of 1,200 words a minute. Persons who thought he could not grasp and retain the content of what he read at this speed have been greatly fooled.

Fast reading and comprehension is a basic skill without which any kind of advanced education is impossible. Even the science student who cannot read speedily is far below capabilities.

Few attain the President's speed in reading. On the other hand, many read at speeds far below their capabilities.

There are 152 words in the above editorial. The President could have read them in no more than seven seconds. What was your speed?

visiting Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, and Venezuela. His main mission will be the big inter-American Economic Conference in Montevideo August 5. . . Premier Khrushchev is trying to lure Prime Minister Macmillan into undertaking a dramatic peace mission to Moscow to head off war over Berlin. Privately, the Russians have passed the word that a Macmillan mission similar to the one he undertook in 1959 would be welcome. British diplomats figure it's a maneuver by Khrushchev to play up to Macmillan's aspirations to be the great peace leader of the 20th century, and the British Embassy has strongly recommended against any trip to Moscow. . . General DeGaulle has promised to withdraw at least two of France's top divisions from Algeria in time to mobilize for the Berlin crisis.

Latin Encouraged

"Amo Amas Amat" may be revived to ring again in the "Halls of Ivy" and down into the elementary grades if some of the educators have their way.

"A return to the study of Latin with renewed emphasis, as a means of strengthening the English language, would help us overcome one of our greatest academic weaknesses," said Mason W. Gross, president of Rutgers University in New Jersey.

Dr. Gross pleaded for help from secondary schools in preparing college freshmen in English. They have little feeling or respect for words he said. Several years of Latin would teach pupils the derivation of English words and give them a better sense of values. The same concept of values would help them in other basic subjects such as history and religion and help them greatly in law and medicine.

Learning to conjugate a Latin verb or decline a Latin noun can be fun and the music of the words can give a lift to a hard subject. There is an appropriate emphasis on French and Spanish and even Russian languages these days, but Latin is still fundamental and should be encouraged in high school and even the grades.

Welfare Is Caring

Abraham Ribicoff, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare recently urged social workers to stop worrying about their professional status and put the word "social" back into social work.

He urged the professionals to cut down on their verbiage and long-winded memoranda, regain the missionary spirit of the early pioneers, and help the government campaign against poverty, slums, group tensions and old age.

The Secretary told the workers at their annual conference recently that "we have been drifting in the field of welfare and hanging on to programs at least twenty-five years old. Many workers have become mere go-betweens for state treasuries and those they seek to help — neglecting prevention of social ills, rehabilitation and protective services."

The day of the hand out and the relief basket is over for the most part, but it is still important to supply the essential physical needs to a destitute family before trying to eliminate the cause of how it got that way. The social workers, whether he is in the Family Service, the Y.W.C.A. or Y.M.C.A., the Red Cross, the Boys' Club, the Salvation Army or the Associated Charities, must care about the person he is trying to help.

Play Safe, Be Safe

A letter from a friend in Los Angeles reports:

"The weather here is gorgeous and I had every intention of spending this past weekend in Palm Springs with my wife. We needed to get away.

"We took the Hollywood freeway but didn't even reach downtown L.A. The car in front of me stopped, but the car behind me didn't.

"Thanks to seat belts neither my wife nor I were hurt but our car will require at least $1,000 worth of repairs.

"May I suggest that you or anyone you know put seat belts in your car. The police agree with us that without those belts my dear wife could have been badly injured, not to mention yours truly."

Practical suggestion? Right!

The World Today

Putting the Reds On the Defensive

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—The Communists act, the West reacts. It's been that way for years. It's that way now. It was true under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower. It's true today under President Kennedy.

It raises a question: When will the West take the initiative to put the Communists on the defensive, give them the miseries?

First it was Greece and Turkey, then Indochina, then Czechoslovakia, then the Berlin blockade, then Korea, then Formosa, then Berlin again, then Cuba and riots in Latin America and now again it's Berlin.

In each case the Communists called the tune and the West danced, trying to offset them. The West has created no crises for Russia or Red China. It's been the other way around.

1. Right after the big war Russia stirred up civil war in Greece, helped the Communist rebels there, brought pressure on Turkey to get concessions and bases in the Straits.

Truman reacted with the Truman plan—aid to Greece and Turkey—which not only was successful but once and for all threw off American isolationism, put the United States neck-deep in Europe's problems, shaped the future.

2. Indochina began to fall apart in 1946, although no one realized it at the time. Indochinese, led by Communists and sick of French colonial rule, began civil war. It lasted eight years. The French fought a half-hearted war, wouldn't let go.

In the end the United States helped the French. Too late. The Communists got half of Indochina. The result of all this: The United States set up Southeast Asian alliances to try to save the rest of the area from the Reds.

3. In 1947—when Bulgaria, Romania, Poland, Hungary had been taken over by Communists, when Communists were the second most powerful political party in France, when Communists were rioting in Italy, when all Western Europe was in danger of economic collapse — the United States came up with its Marshall Plan.

This economic aid program saved Europe. The United States, learning the lesson, has continued the aid ever since, shifting to backward countries as time passed.

4. The West suffered a smashing blow in 1948 when Communists grabbed Czechoslovakia from within and Stalin tried to steal West Berlin with a blockade. The United States couldn't help Czechoslovakia, but it rescued Berlin with an airlift.

In that same shocking year the Senate approved putting the United States into a military alliance with Western Europe for mutual defense. Russia began to look frightened. The alliance was signed April 4, 1949.

5. That year, 1949, was momentous by itself: The Red Chinese took over mainland China, drove Chiang Kai-shek to the island of Formosa, 100 miles off the mainland. Truman said hands off, that Chiang was on his own, wouldn't protect him.

But 1950 and the Communists changed his mind. They began the Korean War. The Red Chinese got into it. The United States reacted by going to war in Korea, deciding to protect Chiang and Formosa. It's been doing so ever since.

6. Late in 1958 Premier Khrushchev picked up where Stalin left off, threatened Berlin anew, really put the heat on in 1959, threw into convulsions the West which didn't seem sure it wanted to fight for the city, set a six-month deadline.

In the end Eisenhower bailed out the West by inviting Khrushchev here. This calmed Khrushchev. He postponed the deadline, but didn't abandon it.

7. Those years—1958 and 1959—were shockers for the United States elsewhere, closer to home, and gave it an insight into Latin America it badly needed.

In 1958 Vice President Richard M. Nixon was stoned and reviled in Latin America. With the dawn of 1959 Fidel Castro, whose sympathies with communism the United States badly misunderstood, took over Cuba, began his anti-Americanism.

This realization of the depths of discontent and Communist penetration among its southern neighbors finally forced the United States into thinking of giving aid on a big scale, not in dribbles.

8. As a result of all the Communist aggressiveness around the world this country in the years since 1949—when it signed its European alliance—has made similar alliances around the world in the hope it might be a dike against the Reds.

9. Now once again Khrushchev threatens Berlin, reinstates his six-month deadline. Now once again the West is in a tizzy, seeming unsure of itself, trying to figure how it should react, what it should do, how far it should go.

HIGHLIGHTS AND SIDELIGHTS FROM YOUR STATE CAPITOL

By Russell A. Mann Jr.
Missouri Press News Service

Commission Does Not Order Up Valuations

The state Tax Commission did not order increases this year in assessed valuations of taxable real property in some 43 counties which have slipped below the 30 per cent statewide equalization floor set in 1955 and, in effect, has given these counties another chance to work out the situation themselves.

Earlier, the Tax Commission, through its chairman at the time, James M. Robertson, said valuations would be ordered up this year unless counties met the 30 per cent floor. Increases would have ranged from 10 to 40 per cent.

Later, the new chairman, John A. Williams, said the commission would not order up valuations if the counties affected showed a "valid and substantial" effort to improve the situation themselves. Judge Williams says the commission has received a "good enough" response.

"There is a possibility, though, of a few laggards," he said. "However, those that are co-operating have done considerable."

He said Boards of Equalization have been scanning sales of the last several years with an eye to bringing their counties up to the 30 per cent floor and have sent out notices to taxpayers when increases seemed justified.

Had the Tax Commission had to order the increases, it is possible that rather than assessors bringing up low valuations and decreasing high ones, a blanket increase would have been applied, affecting all taxpayers.

The Tax Commission has ordered increases in certain classes of personal property this year, affecting some 40 counties. This is ordinary, though. Last year, increases were ordered in 60 counties.

The idea is to strike a state average from the various assessors' reports and bring all up to this average.

Increases this year mostly are small, many being five or ten per cent.

Classes are neat cattle, hogs and motor vehicles and the largest increase is 55 per cent on hogs in Chariton County.

Assembly Affirms Open Records Policy

By unanimous vote, the 71st General Assembly has affirmed Missouri's traditional policy of open public records by passing a measure guaranteeing them.

The House passed the measure 130-0. Earlier, the Senate had given its approval 27-0. Thus the measure becomes one of the few unanimously agreed upon by this General Assembly.

It states simply that except as otherwise provided by law, all state, county and municipal records kept pursuant to law shall at all reasonable times be open for personal inspection by any citizen of Missouri and those in charge of such records shall not refuse the privilege to any citizen.

Any official who violates the law shall be subject to removal or impeachment and is guilty of a misdemeanor and thus can be further punished.

Citizens have a right to inspect such things as assessors' lists,

The Well Child

Care of the Child Starts During Growth of Embryo

By Harold Thomas Hyman, M.D.

More and more we are realizing that the care of your child begins at the time of conception. We have banished ancient fears of injuries through fright, bumps, lightning and witches' curses. But we are becoming increasingly aware of disturbances (embryopathies) due to maternal infections, such as German measles, blood incompatibilities (RH factors) and undue exposures to radiation.

Now in regard to the growing list of embryopathies, it is obvious that our principal efforts should be directed to prevent them. And in the field of prevention, the principal guardians of the growing embryo should and must be the prospective parents.

Thus a principal responsibility of the medical profession, in general, and of a medical columnist, in particular, is that of providing information and instruction for those prospective parents who seek to fulfill their obligations conscientiously.

Before I enter into detail, however, I must warn you that measures for preventive medicine must inevitably arouse some fears. The same is true of campaigns directed against drunken driving, jaywalking or nuclear warfare. Hence what I am about to write of the possible relationship between exposure to radiation and the growing incidence of childhood leukemia should be coolly considered and not cause panic.

various journals and records of proceedings, budgets and financial records, among many, many other records.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Albert Spradling, (D., Cape Girardeau), and is known informally as the "Thomas C. Hennings Jr. Memorial Statute" in honor of the late senator's work for freedom of information in government and for the people's right to know. The measure is hailed by those believing in the principle that the public business is the public's business.

Drunk Driver Law May Go To Voters

With the General Assembly failing to act upon a measure requiring chemical tests of suspected drunk drivers, conferences now are taking place on a plan to place the matter before the people themselves by initiative petition.

Likely the Missouri Safety Council and the church-going people of the state through groups closely connected with the Christian Civic Foundation will handle the petition effort.

Signatures to petitions signed by five per cent of the voters in at least two-thirds of the congressional districts are required to bring the matter to a vote.

Governor Signs Political Participation Measure

Gov. John M. Dalton has signed a measure allowing corporations to contribute to campaigns in connection with a change in any law directly affecting them. Earlier, the governor had thrown a scare into supporters of the measure when he indicated he might veto it.

Here are the facts:

The incidence of childhood leukemia is increasing at an alarming rate. Indeed, in a Mid-west community, a "cluster" of cases has roused local health authorities to inquire into the possibility of some environmental cause.

The incidence of leukemia and of other malignancies was estimated to be four times more frequent in those survivors of the Hiroshima bombing who were within 1,000 meters of the exposure center.

During the earliest embryonic phase, the individual is more sensitive to radiation than he will ever be again throughout his life, according to experiments recently published by Professor Roberts Rugh of Columbia University.

And while ordinary doses of radiation delivered for the purpose of taking the usual diagnostic film do not appear to be harmful, Rugh cautions that the woman should avoid any exposure, during her childbearing years, EXCEPT during the first nine days following the onset of menstruation. That is to say, before the egg ripens and hence before it can possibly be fertilized.

Now you will note in the previous paragraph the words "ordinary doses of radiation." And this refers, of course, to the measured amount of radiation required for diagnostic filming. But now comes a report from the New York City Department of Health showing that unnecessary overexposure to radiation was discovered in 92 per cent of diagnostic X-ray and fluoroscopic machines as a result of faulty operation or inadequate protective equipment.

In another of these columns I'll continue this discussion.

Where Are The Winners Hiding?

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

In racing, some customers look back sadly to the losers, while others peek ahead hopefully and wonder where the winners are hiding.

This is a brief report on what happened Saturday, and a squirt at next Saturday's $100,000 Monmouth Park handicap minus Kelso, and the Brooklyn Handicap a week later at the same dollar value — plus Kelso.

Leonard P. Sasso's Globemaster, who cost $80,000 at the Saratoga yearling sales, proved to be one of the top 3-year-olds in the land when he came up in the last stride Saturday to beat a 70-1 outsider, Editorialist, by a neck in the $108,900 Arlington Classic.

The Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty, who also must be considered high in the 3-year-old picture although beaten in the Kentucky Derby by Jack and Katherine Price's Carry Back, romped from wire to wire in the $122,900 Hollywood Derby. He won by 3¼ lengths over a longshot, We're Hoping.

As for Kelso, the Bohemia Stable's horse of the year in 1960, he will await the 1¼-mile Brooklyn Handicap July 22 at Aqueduct. This seemed to be a logical decision on the part of his owner, Mrs. Richard C. Du Pont, and trainer Carl Hanford.

Kelso has won 10 straight races, including the Metropolitan Mile under 130 pounds and the Suburban Handicap with 133. Both were $100,000 races, and are the first pair of the great but elusive Handicap Triple. In 1913, Whisk Broom II slammed the Met-Sub-Brook triple, and only Tom Fool in 1953 duplicated the feat. The three races go back into the 1890's.

Title Defender Takes His Daily Rotten Row Run

LONDON (AP)—Paul Pender, who defends his share of the world middleweight title against cockney Terry Downes Tuesday, took his daily pre-breakfast run along Rotten Row today and said he felt fine.

The big guy from Brookline, Mass., who hasn't lost a fight in nine years, has been running every day along the sandy track in London's Hyde Park, where British bluebloods go riding.

"No problems for tomorrow night," Pender said. "I'm right at my best. There's no reason why the fight shouldn't go the same way as my scrap against Downes last January. After all, we're both mature boxers and well set in our styles."

A partisan crowd of 12,000 will cheer on Downes, a former U.S. Marine, when he steps into the ring.

Injured Knee Cause of Concern

Eddie Mathews Available For 30th All-Star Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National League was cheered today by the news that Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's hard hitting third baseman, would be available for duty against the American League in Tuesday's 30th All-Star game, second in California and first in San Francisco.

It was feared that Milwaukee's slugger might be forced to pass up the spectacle because of a knee injury sustained in a collision with Los Angeles' Daryl Spencer last week. The big Californian returned to the Braves' lineup Sunday and assured NL Manager Danny Murtaugh he would be ready to play.

A capacity crowd of more than 42,000 was expected to attend the first of this year's two All-Star games, which will be televised nationally. The second game will be played July 31 in Boston.

San Francisco fans were awaiting their first look at the American League sluggers, especially Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, the New York Yankees' home run twins.

It is mainly because of Maris (33 home runs), Mantle (29), and Detroit's Rocky Colavito (22) and Norm Cash (24), and the virtual certainty that Whitey Ford, New York's brilliant southpaw, will pitch the first three innings, that the American League has been made a 6 to 5 favorite. The AL was soundly beaten in both games last year and lost nine of the last 13 although it holds an over-all 16-13 edge.

Maris, Cash, Yankee shortstop Tony Kubek and the switch-hitting Mantle, will bat from the left side of the plate. Consequently, it is believed that Murtaugh might open with southpaw Sandy Koufax, who has won 11 of 16 for the Dodgers. Ford won his 10th straight Saturday and owns a phenomenal 16-2 record.

Murtaugh can turn to two other left-handed starters, Mike McCormick of the Giants or Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's amazing 40-year-old, who has appeared in six previous games. It is highly possible he might surprise by starting Joey Jay, who registered his 12th victory for Cincinnati Sunday.

Bolan replied in a lengthy statement to the NBA threat last week to strip Patterson of his championship unless he signed within a reasonable time for a defense against a fighter listed in the top six by the NBA.

McNeeley, unbeaten in 23 bouts, is not ranked by the NBA. Bolan, president of Championship Sports Inc., has said he hopes to announce a date for the Patterson-McNeeley bout some time this week. The fight tentatively is listed for September in Boston. Bolan has applied for a matchmaker's license in Massachusetts to be able to promote the fight.

"The NBA," Bolan said, "has continuously attempted to downgrade Patterson, and last week's feeble beat regarding McNeeley is another bid to steal the title from a man who won't bow to their ridiculous rules."

"Patterson is the only man in ring history to regain the heavyweight title and he is not going to lose it to a bunch of armchair schemers. A fighter should be rated only on his achievements in the ring and not by his connections with the NBA."

Keane Drops Bird McDermott Suspended From Club

No Fine Assessed; Night Owl Habits Cause for Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Johnny Keane, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, suspended relief pitcher Mickey McDermott, 32-year-old lefthander rescued from obscurity by the Cards.

Solly Hemus fined McDermott $500 for an infraction in Chicago last week, shortly before Hemus was fired.

No fine was assessed for McDermott's escapades here Friday and Saturday, but Keane at an open clubhouse meeting, said McDermott's late-hours habit could influence young Cardinal ball players.

Said Keane: "If he got away with it, my authority would go out the window and respect of the players for me with it. We've got a fine group of boys and we can't let anybody hurt them."

He said "I don't know of any other serious problems on the club now. I hope it will put the others on their guard."

There had been reports of players taking advantage of Hemus' laxity in regard to the curfew but some of these players have left the team.

Other players agreed Sunday that "Solly was too easy with us." Keane said: "McDermott has no complaint. We not only gave him a chance but he took over a spot on the staff that could have gone to a young pitcher."

An 18-game winner for the Boston Red Sox in 1953, McDermott has also worked for the Washington Senators, New York Yankees, Detroit Tigers and Kansas City Athletics.

He pitched in the minor leagues last season. With the Cards, he was credited with one victory and appeared in 19 games with a .367 earned run average.

Ken Boyer had four straight hits, including a two-run homer in the eighth inning, to power the Cardinals over the Giants 6-3 in the first game of Sunday's double header with San Francisco. The Giants took the nightcap 6-1.

Steve Barber pitched a shutout and his teammates gave him 12 hits as the Baltimore Orioles downed the Kansas City Athletics 8-0 at Baltimore.

Barber scattered four singles in notching his fourth shutout and 10th victory of the season.

Bob Shaw was the loser, surrendering six runs on nine hits before leaving for a pinch hitter. Reliever Jerry Walker gave up the other two runs.

Tiger-Yankee Margin Narrows

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers figure the scrap for the American League pennant is strictly a two-team tussle between themselves and the New York Yankees, and at the moment, they've proved their point—by a point.

That's the margin, just .001 in the percentages, the Tigers have over New York as they now join forces with the Yankees for the AL's battle with the National in Tuesday's All-Star game at San Francisco.

With Frank Lary, the league's ace right-hander, allowing only three singles and winning No. 13 in the opener, Detroit climbed back into first place by beating the Los Angeles Angels 1-0 and 6-3 Sunday while New York split with Boston. The Yankees won the first game, 3-0 behind the five-hit pitching of rookie Roland Sheldon, but dropped to second in a 9-6 nightcap defeat by the Red Sox.

Baltimore gained control of third place, seven games behind, by whipping Kansas City 8-0 on Steve Barber's four-hitter. Cleveland dropped to fourth when the Chicago White Sox thumped the Indians twice, 7-5 and 9-8. Minnesota beat the Senators 7-1.

In the National, Cincinnati clobbered Los Angeles 14-3, for a five-game bulge over the second place Dodgers. Pittsburgh defeated Milwaukee 5-4. San Francisco lost the doubleheader opener 6-3 to St. Louis, then beat the Cards 6-1. The Chicago Cubs swept two from Philadelphia 9-8 and 8-5, with the second game called after eight innings because of darkness in lightless Wrigley Field.

Lary (13-4) walked just two and struck out 10. The Tigers handed Eli Grba (5-9) his fifth loss in a row with a second-inning run when Norm Cash walked, Steve Boros was hit by a pitch and Mike Roarke singled, Boros, Sheldon, (6-2) allowed Boston nothing but singles. He walked no one and struck out seven for his sixth straight victory and second shutout in a row. Elston Howard doubled home the first run off loser Bill Monbouquette (8-7), who also gave up Roger Maris' 33rd home run.

The Red Sox broke loose for 13 hits in the nightcap. Two unearned runs in the first inning tagged the loss on Ralph Terry (5-1). Rookie Don Schwall (7-2) was the winner, with relief help from Arnie Earley.

Barber (10-6) collected his fourth shutout of the season—tops in the majors—for the Orioles. The Birds beat Bob Shaw (5-8) in the first inning when Jackie Brandt's triple followed a double by Brooks Robinson.

A pinch-hit bases-loaded homer by Sherm Lollar with two out in the ninth won the first game for the White Sox and beat reliever Frank Funk (9-7). Willie Kirkland hit three home runs for Cleveland, but J. C. Martin's two-run homer in the seventh inning provided Chicago's edge in the nightcap as Cal McLish (5-8) defeated Jim Perry (7-7). Ray Herbert (7-8) was the first game winner.

Earl Battey belted two home runs and Ted Lepcio one as the Twins won their first at Griffith Stadium in six tries. Camilo Pascual (7-11) was the winner. Tom Cheney (1-1) lost it.

ANGLING AROUND

Casting Types
There are different weights and types of line and a wide variety of lures to be used for the four types of casting — bait, spin, fly and spinning.

There is an almost equal variety of rods and reels.
If you started fishing before 1950, the chances are you know about bait casting. In this type, line runs off a revolving reel.

This and flycasting were the only types generally used in this country until the advent of spinning and spin casting. This new concept of fishing accounts for more than 50 per cent of sales.

If the reel gets going too fast for the line in bait casting, a backlash occurs. A backlash is a snarl of line with no beginning and no end. It can take half a day to straighten out.

Spin casting and spinning differ in that a fixed reel is placed parallel to the rod and the line runs off the side toward the rod tip.

In spinning, the line is grasped between the thumb and forefinger of the hand holding the rod. The rod is drawn back, then moved forward suddenly and stopped. At this point, the line is released and the lure "tows" it to the target spot.

Spin casting is by far the most popular method of getting a lure to the area where the angler hopes fish live.

It is identical in principle with spinning, except that the reel has a push button that brakes the line. This button is held down during the "backswing" to keep the lure from running. Then it is released during the forward thrust.

Both types have adjustments for tension, too, so the fish may be played properly.

Fly casting differs from bait casting, spinning and spin casting in that the weight of the lure does not pull the line to the target. An extremely light lure, called a fly, is used. Line is stripped off the reel and held in a loop in the fingers of the left hand (for right handers).

The rod is whipped back and forth as more and more line is played out without letting the line or fly touch the water until the final forward cast when the lure is landed.

A variation is a single cast, back to front, where less line is needed. Fly casting is an exact science, not for beginners.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dean Ann Landers: Help! Urgent! Swimming season is in full swing and we need some ground rules for our teenagers.

Our 15-year-old son left home yesterday in his swimming trunks, a knit shirt and a pair of sandals. He went over to pick up his girl friend. She had on a bikini and a skimpy beach coat. They left her house at noon, drove around a while, decided not to go swimming after all, and went back to her house to play records (still in swimming clothes.) I got this information from the girl's mother who is very sensible and as concerned as I am.

Now, Ann, what is the proper attire for teenagers who are going swimming? We belong to a club which has a bath-house but the kids don't want to "waste time" getting in and out of their suits. How about this? —

TEXAS QUESTIONER

Dear Questioner: My reply is sure to stir up the young animals, but this problem exists not only in Texas, but everywhere.

Teens who don't want to "waste time" changing into swim suits should wear slacks and shirts over their swimming clothes. The return trip calls for a change, however, unless the kids are kooky enough to go home in wet suits.

Our sex-oriented culture presents enough stimulation without allowing teenagers to drive around half naked. The fact that your son and his date decided not to go swimming after all speaks for itself. Certainly a bikini is no outfit for two hours of record playing.

Parents should get together and decide on the rules, then insist that the kids stick to them.

Dear Ann Landers: I need an opinion from someone who doesn't know me. And you're elected. I'm a moderately attractive career girl, 32 years of age, reasonably content, and have always been accused of being "too fussy and too prudish" where men are concerned. The man I've been dating for the past seven months is 40, pleasant, and wonderful company. Co-incidentally, our vacations fall at exactly the same time and he jokingly suggested that we go on a trip together. The joking became serious and finally he said "Why not?"

Now I'm thinking seriously of saying yes. We would take my car because it's in better shape than his and everything would be strictly respectable. We'd stop at the same hotels, but have separate accommodations, naturally. We wouldn't lie about it, we'd tell everyone openly I know we'd have a good time, but I'm concerned about my good name. Advice? — KISMET

Dear Kismet: Which means more — the good time or the good name? The arrangement he suggests is unconventional and bound to cause plenty of chatter. Incidentally, there's an old-fashioned custom that would make this trip just dandy. I wonder if he's heard of it. It's called marriage.

Confidential to FIT TO BE TIED: If your husband's family chooses to give his former wife the glad hand instead of the cold-shoulder, there is nothing you can do about it. Be pleasant if you are thrown together but avoid it whenever you can do so.

Confidential to INSULTED TEEN: Sorry, Toots, but I'll bet you gave him the go-away closer routine to test your woman-power. A lady makes it easy for a man to be a gentleman.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Records Not Exact Words In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—When is a record not always a record? Answer: When it's the Congressional Record.

The Congressional Record is the bible of Capitol Hill, as it is for many citizens who make it their business to keep up with what Congress is doing.

Yet this daily journal of what is said and done in both houses is not an exact transcript at all times. The reason is contained in three words — revise and extend.

Representatives who rise to address the House invariably precede their remarks with this sentence: I ask unanimous consent to revise and extend my remarks." The unanimous consent is always given. And the formula gives the speaker the right to edit what he says, as taken down by the official shorthand reporters. He may chance a word, add a sentence or a paragraph, leave out a section.

Senators have the same right, although they do not often use the revise and extend formula on the floor.

When the record appears the next day, it carries the changed version, not the exact words that were said on the floor, if the member has exercised his revise and extend privilege.

It is impossible for a reader to tell that something has been changed, left out or added.

Some senators and representatives don't think this is right. They argue that the Congressional Record should be an exact public record available to all without any monkeying with the script.

One of these is Rep. Paul C. Jones, D-Mo., who also objects to the high cost of producing the Record. He said recently that a survey he made showed we could save about $1 million a year by limiting the kind of extraneous things printed in the Record's appendix, such as the winning essay in a high school contest.

The Record varies in length each day depending on how much activity there is in Congress.

It costs an estimated average of $81 a page to produce. From Jan. 3 through June 30 of this year, the Record totaled 16,098 pages, including 4,998 pages of appendix. At $81 a page, this comes to $1,303,338. The budget for fiscal year 1962, which started July 1, estimated the Record would run to 22,000 pages at a cost of $1.8 million.

UNDERGROUND TUNNEL AT TEST SITE — A work car (background) moves over tracks in a 14-foot high tunnel in the new complex of the Nevada Test Site at Yucca Flats, Nev. 11 Foreign Legion Officers Are Given Suspended Sentences

PARIS (AP) — Eleven Foreign Legion officers who participated in last April's unsuccessful military revolt in Algeria received suspended sentences ranging from one to two years from a special military tribunal.

They were members of the now-defunct first Foreign Legion parachute regiment that seized Algiers last April 22 to install the insurgent junta of ex-Gen. Maurice Challe.

Their lawyers Saturday pleaded extenuating circumstances, citing deception and bitterness among the French army's career officers in Algeria.

Snagged Rope Leads To Climber's Death

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — A snapped rope led to the death of Gabriel Lee, III, 18, on the face of a mountain known as the No. 1 Flatiron south of here Sunday.

Young Lee's companion, Dave Roberts, also 18, said he had untied himself and dropped the rope to Lee when it became snagged near the crest of the flatiron. Lee was looping it about his arm when he lost his footing and fell.

The victim's father, oil man Gabriel Lee Jr., was killed in a highway accident near Houston, Tex., last March 4.

Craig Sheaffer Takes Own Life With a Shotgun

FORT MADISON, Iowa (AP) — Craig R. Sheaffer, 63, assistant secretary of commerce in the Eisenhower administration and chairman of the board of W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co., committed suicide at his fashionable home Sunday.

E. H. Pollard, family attorney, said Sheaffer had been suffering from a liver ailment and had been despondent recently.

Dr. Frank Mayner, county medical examiner, said Sheaffer had shot himself in the head with one barrel of a 12-gauge double-barrel shotgun.

Sheaffer's father, W. A. Sheaffer, founded the pen company in 1913. He succeeded his father as president in 1938, resigning in 1953 to become assistant secretary of Commerce.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia; two sons, W. A. Sheaffer II, president of the company, and John D. Sheaffer, a vice president; and two daughters.

Congo Youth Problem In Large Gangs

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A 14-year-old African girl was seized at a Leopoldville bar, hustled off to a hideout and kept captive 14 days as a plaything for young mobsters.

Similar kidnappings occur frequently in the Congolese capital. During the 12 months since independence, gangs of juvenile hoodlums have roamed almost unchecked by police.

Social investigators at Leopoldville's Lovanium University have made contact with 250 gangs. One is called "United Nations." Its leader goes by the name of Dag Hammars. Nick Khrushchev is boss of a rival gang known as the Russians.

Then there are the Jokers, the Kidnappers, the Indians, the Nelsons, the Bolosis, the Lotars and the A.J.A.M., which, in the local language of Lingala, stands for the Association of Young Lovers.

With 25,000 boys between the ages of 12 and 23 either unemployed or failing to attend school, juvenile delinquency in Leopoldville is a grave and mounting problem. A United Nations report says attempts to cope with the problem have to date been largely unsuccessful.

Many gangs specialize. Some make a practice of grabbing girls others make nightly forays into the European sector to rob houses, one gang has got bag-snatching to a fine art. There are gangs that trade in pornographic pictures and others who meet to smoke marijuana cigarettes.

Sometimes girls are kidnapped and their clothes kept in a bucket of water to prevent them leaving the mobsters' stronghold.

Parents rarely complain to the police for fear of reprisals.

And even when they do complain the police seem powerless to crack down on the gangs.

"The population of Leopoldville has multiplied 3 1/4 times in the last 12 years," said Dr. L. W. Langrod, social affairs adviser to the United Nations in the Congo. "This means that thousands of youths have flocked to the city from their native villages."

Dr. Langrod sees a solution to the problem only in a long-term provision of more employment in Congolese cities, a scheme to make the villages more attractive — such as by providing mobile cinemas—and by sponsoring new youth movements.

43 Drown As Japs Flock to Seaside

TOKYO (AP)—Police reported 43 persons drowned Sunday while swimming at sea resorts and rivers in the outskirts of Tokyo. Thirteen persons are missing.

An estimated 500,000 persons rushed to the beaches to escape Tokyo's 95 degree heat—12 degrees above average for this time of the year.

Sophomore Course Becomes Too Stiff

NEW YORK (AP) — Columbia College has taken its advanced course in contemporary civilization off the compulsory list for sophomores. The reason: Contemporary civilization has become too complex.

A report issued by the faculty committee noted regretfully that the course was a casualty of the trend of the social sciences toward becoming so technical and specialized as to defy translation into ordinary discourse.

Is Survived By Six Passengers

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and his son Gordon, 11, survived a crash landing on the Idaho Falls airport Sunday. So did the other four in the twin-engine plane. No body was hurt.

They had been fishing Saturday at Henry's Lake in eastern Idaho not far from Yellowstone National Park. When the plane took off from a landing strip on a ranch it hit a cow. The landing gear and a propeller were damaged. The pilot, Homer Fountain of Brigham City, Utah, flew 100 miles to Idaho Falls and skidded 1,200 feet to a safe stop on the runway, wheels up.
